AN OLD POEM.

The following poem was written by Wm. Hill, a brother of the late Judge Daniel Hill, of this place, over tifty years ago: Woman, mild and modest creators, Great and noble work of nature; How begintful her form and size, Her blooming check and lovely eyes. Woman was made for some great end As sure as I those lines have perined, Before created was designed To be the mother of ocatished.

An helioneel, too, for mun was she, Whileb you til Genesis may see; For which a man should leave his friend, And to his loving wife nitend.

Her features delicate and fine, With modesty and love combine Her looks and gestures do declare That she is wise as well as fair.

The lapesity her hands have made, Reveals the genius of her bead; Mso, to painting she is learned, And unture's charms she has disorn aped punther which has been seen and heard often near this place. Mr. Bellaven notified the boys of the facts. As quick as a flash they armed them-selves with gams, plstols, knives, etc., quililis and down dates. Old Elvis, plored, leader and erack shot of Grayam, tooted his horn three times, giving them notice he was fast on his track. While listening and waiting for his return we heard the discharge of his longranged rifle, the contents of which cutered the ground some lifty yards distant, between him and the panther. He kept ebse pursuit after him until daylight, when dogs and party returned home disappointed. The panther evidently having of an arrival and close pursuit, refuged for the mountains, leaving them standing between darkness and daylight. Our school is in a flourishing condition under the management of Mrs. E. A. Lawyer, with tifty or sixty pupils. Misses Penolia McChire and Pallie Layman left last Tuesday for the far-fanced city of Litchfield to attend the teacher's institute this week. Miss Mary C. Crawford returned hou from a pleasant visit to Hardin county, whither she has been visting friends. The festival at Litchfield was a grand atlalr. Miss Sallie Thomas carried away the prize-not a common-a line gold watch of more value. June, come in next week and give them a lift. Quill.
